CHAPTER III.

Winnington's visits to the manor grew more constant as the day of his departure drew near. Early in the morning he passed through the village, and entered the dilapidated house, and only issued from it again, accompanied by Ellen, to pursue their botanical pursuits upon the hills. Had he ever told her of any other pursuit in which he was engaged? Had he gone in a formal manner, as recommended in the "True Lover's Guide," to the father, and demanded his permission to pay his addresses to his daughter? Had he displayed to that careful gentleman the state of his affairs, and agreed on the sum to be settled during the marriage upon Ellen as pin-money, and as jointure in case of his death? No; he had never mentioned the state of his heart to Ellen, or of his affairs to Mr. Warleigh. He had spoken, to be sure, a good deal about the future; his plans when he had taken his degree; the very street he should live in when he entered into practice, and somehow all these projects had reference to some one else. He never seemed to limit the view to himself; but in all his counselings about the years to come, he was like the editor of a newspaper, or the writer of a ponderous history, and used the dignified "We." We shall have such a pretty little drawing-room, with a great many roses on the paper, a splendid mirror over the mantle-piece, and a piano—such a piano! against the wall. Who was included in the We? Ah! that was a secret between him and Ellen; and I am not going to play the spy, and then let all the world know what I have discovered. It seemed as if the father was included too; for there was a charming little room laid aside for a third individual, with a nice low fender and a nice warm fire, and a nice pipe laid all ready for him after dinner, and some delicious tobacco procured from a patient of Winnington, a distinguished merchant in the Turkey trade, and kept in a beautiful bag of blue silk, which Ellen had sewed up with her own hands, with gold tassels, astonishing to behold.

"And we must have a spare bedroom," he said; it needn't be very large for my sister—she's not very tall yet, and a little crib would do."

"But Dulcibel will grow," said Ellen; "she's now seven, and by the time she requires the room she will be—who can tell how old she will be then, Winnington?"

"I can. She will be ten at most."

"I think," said Mr. Warleigh, you had better bring her here: we can get Joe Walters to patch up another room; and, with a prop or two under the floor, even the ball-room might be safe to occupy."

"Oh! no, father; the floor is entirely fallen in; and, besides, the ceiling is just coming down."

"And London is such a noble field for exertion," said Winnington; and if I have a chance, I will so work and toil, and write and make myself known, that I shall be disappointed if I am not a baronet in ten years—Sir Winnington Harvey, Bart."

"A very modern title," said Mr. Warleigh, which I hope no one I care for will ever condescend to except. My ancestors had been knights of Combe-Warleigh for six hundred years before baronetcies were heard of; besides, as those pinchbeck baronies are only given to millionaires, where are you to get a fortune sufficient to support the dignity?"

A sudden flush came to Winnington's face. "I should like to owe everything to you, Sir; and, perhaps—perhaps, there will be enough for any rank the king can give."

"It strikes me," said Mr. Warleigh, with a laugh, "you are a great deal more hopeful even than I was at your time of life. Ah! I remember what day-dreams we had, Ellen's mother and I—how we expected to restore the old name, and build up the old house—"

"I will do both, Sir!" cried Winnington, standing up. "I feel sure there is a way of doing so; I have thought much over this for a week past, and before I go I'll prove to you—"

"What! Has a ghost come from the grave to point out some hidden treasure?"

Winnington was still standing up in the excitement of the new idea which filled his heart. He was just going to reply when a sudden crash alarmed them. Ellen screamed, and fled to Winnington for safety. The sound shook the whole house. At first they thought some of the outer wall had fallen down. A cloud of dust soon filled the room, and nearly blinded them.

"It is the ball-room ceiling," said Mr. Warleigh, as if struck with the omen. "The house is ruined beyond repair, and some time or other will bury us all in its fall. Young man, I advise you to get out of its way; for it will crush whatever stands near it."

The interruption gave Winnington time to think, and he resolved not to make Mr. Warleigh the confidant of his hopes. That night he took his leave. It was the last night of his residence in the rectory, but he was to return next short vacation. The parting was long, and it was late when he got home. Arthur was busy writing. He had given up his geology for the last week, and seldom moved out of the house; he looked up as Winnington came in, but said nothing in welcome.

"I'm glad to find you up," said Winnington, "for I want to talk to you, Arthur, and take your advice, if you are not busy."

Arthur laid aside the pen, and covered the sheet he was writing with blotting-paper.

"About Ellen, I suppose?" he said; "love in a cottage, and no money to pay the butcher. Go on!"

"It is about Ellen," said Winnington; "it is about love—a cottage also, probably—but not about poverty, but rank, wealth, magnificence!"

"Ha! let us hear. You speak with sense at last—you'll give up this penniless fancy—you'll hate her in a month when you find yourself tied to penury and obscurity."

"But I shan't be tied to penury and obscurity; I tell you she is the greatest heiress in England, and it is I who will put her in possession of her wealth. It is this right hand which will lift up the veil that keeps her treasures concealed! It is I who would hang pearls about her neck that would buy a kingdom, and plant the diamonds of India among her hair—and all from her own soil!"

It is impossible to describe the effect of this speech upon the listener. He sat upright upon his chair; his lips partly open, his face as pale as ashes, and his eye fixed upon the enthusiastic boy.

"And you! you, dear Arthur, shall help me in this—for your German residence gave you a knowledge of the appearance of a mineral bed—you have studied the subject here, for I have watched your experiments. I know this estate is filled with ore; but how to work it, Arthur—how to begin—how to smelt—to clear—to cast! these are things you must help me in; Ellen will be grateful, and so shall I."

"Shall you? You be grateful for what?"

"For your aid in bringing into practical effect the discovery I have made of the vast mineral resources with which all Combe-Warleigh is filled.—You'll help us, Arthur—for Lucy's sake! for my sake! for all our sakes! won't you!"

"How have you made this discovery!" said Arthur, in a calm voice.

"Do you remember the night you burned the broom-plant? I thought nothing of it at the time, but in the morning when I came down, the old woman was clearing out the grate. I stopped her, and grubbed about among the ashes; and see what I found! a piece of solid metal, perfectly free from earth! See, here it is! How lucky I was to make the discovery! It will make Mr. Warleigh richer than if his lands were filled with gold."

The face of Arthur grew almost black.

"I was of age," he said, "four days ago, and made Mr. Warleigh's agent an offer for the manorial rights and heath-lands of his estate—which he is bound to accept, for I give the sum they ask."

"Arthur!" exclaimed Winnington, starting up; "have you the heart to ruin the right owners of the soil?"

"By this time they have sold it; they are deep in debt."

"But they shall not! No; this very moment I will go back to the manor and tell Mr. Warleigh what I know; he will not fulfill the bargain made by his attorney."

"Oh! no, you won't," said Arthur, knitting his brows; I have toiled and struggled for many years for this, and you think I will now submit to beggary and disgrace, to see the wealth I have worked for formed into shape, called out of nothing into glittering existence, heaped upon another, and that other a dotard whose fathers for a thousand years have been treading on countless riches, and never heard the sound—the sound that reached my ears the moment I trod the soil. It shall not be!"

Winnington looked at the wild eye of his companion. A suspicion again came into his mind of the state of Arthur's brain. He tried to soothe him.

"But perhaps, after all," he said, "we may be both mistaken. It is very likely the friendliest thing I could do to hinder you from buying these unprofitable acres. If your expectations are deceived, you will be utterly ruined, and what will you do?"

"A man can always die," replied Arthur, sitting down; "and better that than live in poverty."

"And Lucy—!"

"Forever Lucy! I tell you, Winnington, that when you look at me you grow so like her, that I almost hate the girl, as if the blow you strike me with just now were struck by her."

"I strike no blow. I merely say that Lucy would give you the same advice as I do. She would not wish to grow rich by the concealment of a treasure, and the impoverishment of the rightful owner."

"The rightful owner is the man to whom the treasure belongs," said Arthur, not bursting forth into a fresh explosion as Winnington expected, the moment his speech was uttered. "And if the bargain is concluded, the lands are mine."

"Not all?"

"No. I leave them the rich fields, the pasture ground in the valley, the farm upon the slope. I am modest, and content myself with the useless waste; the dreary moor, the desert hill. It is, in fact, making Mr. Warleigh a free gift of fifteen hundred pounds, and with that he can give his daughter a portion, and rebuild his old ruin, with a wing in it for his son-in-law; and the remaining five hundred of my stately fortune (that wretches should be found so low as to exist on two thousand pounds!) will erect a crushing-mill, and dig to the first lode. Then—then," he continued, as the picture rose to his imagination, "the land will grow alive with labor. There will be a town where the present hamlet shivers in solitude upon the wild. There will be the music of a thousand wheels, all disengaging millions from the earth. There will be a mansion such as kings might live in, and I—and I—"

"And Lucy?" again interposed Winnington.

"Ay! and Lucy—when I have raised the annual income to ten thousand pounds—I could not occupy the house with less."

Winnington looked upon his friend with pity. He sat down and was silent for some time. There was no use in continuing the conversation. "You seem to forget," he said, at last, "that I go to-morrow to Oxford."

"So soon?" said Arthur, with a scrutinizing look. "You didn't intend to go till Saturday."

"I shall have a few days longer with my family. I want to see Dulcibel, who is home from school; and besides," he added, with some embarrassment, "I don't find our residence here so pleasant as it used to be. There was a time," he said, after a pause, "when it would have broken my heart to leave you; but now—"

There was a tremble in his voice, and he stopped.

"And why?" said Arthur. "Whose fault is it that there is a change?"

"Ah! mine, I dare say. I don't blame any one," replied Winnington, checked in the flow of feeling by the coldness of Arthur's voice. "You will have your letter for Lucy ready. I shall start before you are up; so you had better let me have it to-night."

"There is plenty of time. I don't go to bed till late. I will walk ten or twelve miles with you on your way to the post-wagon. The exercise will do me good."

"I start very early, for the wagon leaves for Exeter at ten in the morning, I have sent on my trunk by the shoemaker's cart. I have taken leave of—of people who have been kind to me, and shall walk merrily across the moor. It is only fifteen miles."

"I shall see you as far as Hawsleigh Brook," said Arthur; "that is, if you don't object to the company of a friend. And why should we quarrel?"

Winnington took the offered hand. "I knew your heart could not be really so changed,' he said, "as you tried to make it appear. You are ill, Arthur, your brain is too much excited. I will not let you get up so early, or take such exercise. It will put you into a fever. Let me feel your pulse, and you can owe me my first fee."

The pulse was galloping; the cheek alternately flushed and paled.

"This is beyond my present skill," said Winnington, shaking his head. "You must apply to the nearest doctor for advice."

"You are very kind, my dear Winnington, as you always are; but I don't think medicine will be of much avail."

"But you will see the doctor?"

"Whatever you like," replied Arthur, now quite submissive to his friend's directions.

"And you will write to Lucy, quietly, soberly. She'll be alarmed if you give way to your dreams of wealth," said Winnington.

"And Aladdin's Palace and the salary?" replied Arthur, with a smile. "Well, I will be as subdued as I can, and the note shall be ready for you in time."

He took the pen as he spoke, and commenced a letter. Winnington looked at him, but more in sorrow than in anger. There was something in the pertinacious offer of Arthur to accompany him which displeased him. "He watches me," he said, "as if afraid of my whispering a word of what I know to the Warleighs. I shall reach London in time, and carry a specimen of the ore with me." The clock struck one. "You don't seem very quick in writing, Arthur. Perhaps you will leave the letter on the table. I am going to bed."

"No—just five minutes—and tell her, Winnington—tell her that I am unchanged; that riches, rank, position—nothing will alter my affections—"

"And that you will come to see her soon?,,

"Yes; when I have been to London."

Winnington started. "And when do you go there?"

"In two days. I will come to Warwickshire on my return—perhaps before you have gone back to Oxford."

"Ah! that will put all right! That will be a renewal of the old time."

"Here's the letter; put it carefully away. I have told her I am unchanged. You must tell her so too."

Winnington shook his head, but said nothing. They joined hands.

"And now," said Winnington, "farewell. I didn't think our parting would be like this. But remember, if we should never meet again, I never changed; no, not for a moment, in my affection to you."

"Why shouldn't we meet again? Do you think me so very ill?" inquired Arthur.

"I don't know. There are thoughts that come upon us, we don't know why. It wasn't of your health I was thinking. But there are many unexpected chances in life. Farewell. You shan't get up in the morning."

They parted for the night. Arthur, instead of going to bed, looked out upon the moor. A wild desolate scene it was, which seemed to have some attraction for him, for which it was difficult to account. When he had sat an hour—perhaps two hours, for he took no note of time—in perfect stillness, observing the stars, which threw a strange light upon the heath, he thought he heard a creaking on the rickety old stairs, as of some one slipping on tiptoe down. He stood up at his window, which commanded a view of the top of the wooden porch. Stealthily looking round, as if in fear of observation, he saw a man with a lantern cautiously held before him emerge from the house and walk rapidly away. He turned off toward the left. Over his shoulder he carried a pickaxe and a spade. They shone fitfully in the light. He passed down the declivity toward the waterfall, and then disappeared.

Next morning, at six o'clock, the old woman, on coming to her daily work, found the door on the latch. On the table she saw a note, and took it up stairs. She knocked at Arthur's door.

"Come in," he said. Is that you Winnington? I shall get up in a moment."

"No, Zur, the young gentleman be gone, and I thought this here letter might be of conzequence."

Arthur took the letter, and by the gray light of dawn, read as follows:

"I am going to leave you, dear Arthur, and feel that I did not part from you so kindly as I wished. I don't like to show my feelings; for in fact I have so little command of them, that I am always afraid you will despise me for my weakness. I will give your messages and your letter to Lucy. I will tell her you are coming soon. Even now the dawn is not far off, and I am going before the hour I told you; for I will not allow you, in your present state of health, to accompany me to Hawsleigh. It is to London I am going. Oh! pardon me for going. I think it my duty to go. You will think so too, when you reflect. If they are surprised at my absence (for I may be detained) explain to them where I am gone. I should have told you this last night, but I did not dare. Dear Arthur, think kindly of me. I always think affectionately of you.—W. H."

"He should have signed his name in full," said Arthur, and laid the letter under his pillow. "To London—to the attorney—with specimens of the ore. I shall get to town before him, in spite of his early rising."

There was a smile upon his face, and he got up in a hurry.

"He can't have been long gone," he said to the old woman, "for the ink he wrote with was not dry."

"I thought I saw him as I came," she replied, "a long way across the heath; but p'raps it was a bush, or maybe a cow. I don't know, but it was very like him."

After breakfast he hurried to the village. The drunken shoemaker was earning a farther title to that designation, and was speechless in bed, with a bandage over his head, which some one had broken the night before. The money Winnington had paid him for carting his luggage was answerable for his helpless condition. There was no other horse or vehicle in the place. So, moody and discontented, Arthur returned, put a shirt in each pocket of his coat, and proceeded on foot to Hawsleigh. He arrived there at one o'clock. The post wagon had started at ten. The shoemaker had carefully instructed the driver to convey Winnington's luggage to Exeter; and as he only jogged on at the rate of four miles an hour, and loiterd besides on the way, he was not to wait for his passenger, who would probably walk on a few miles, and take his seat when he was tired.

There was no conveyance in Hawsleigh rapid enough to overtake a vehicle which traveled even at so slow a pace as four miles an hour with the advantage of three hours' start; and once in the coach at Exeter, there was no possibility of contending with such rapidity of locomotion. It would take him to London in little more than five days.

Arthur, however, discovered that a carrier's cart started at three o'clock for the village of Oakfield, twelve miles onward on the Exeter road. He was in such a state of excitement and anxiety to get on, that rest in one place was intolerable; and though he knew that he was not a yard advanced in reality by availing himself of this chance, as after all he would have to wait somewhere or other for the next morning's post-wagon, he paid a small fee for the carriage of a few articles he hastily bought and tied up in a bundle, and set off with the carrier. He seemed to be relieved more and more as he felt nearer to the object of his journey. With knitted brow and pressed lips he sat in the clumsy cart or walked alongside. The driver, after some attempts at conversation, gave him up to his own reflections.

"A proud fellow as ever I see," he muttered, "and looks like a lord. Well, he shouldn't travel by a cart if he didn't speak to cart's company."

The cart's company increased as they got on. Women with poultry-baskets, returning from the neighboring hamlets and farms; stray friends of the proprietor of the vehicle who were on their way to Oakfield; and at last little village children, who had come out to meet the cart, and were already fighting as to who should have the privilege of riding the old horse to water when he was taken out of the shafts; it was a cavalcade of ten or a dozen persons when the spire of the church came in view. Arthur still walked beside them, but took no part in the conversation. There seemed something unusual going on in the main street as they drew near. There was a crowd of anxious-faced peasantry opposite the door of the Woodman's Arms; they were talking in whispers and expecting some one's arrival.

"Have ye seen him coming, Luke Waters?" said two or three at a time to the carrier.

"Noa—who, then?"

"The crowner; he ha' been sent for a hour and more."

"What's happened, then? Woa, horse!"

"Summat bad. He's there!" said a man, pointing to the upper window of the inn, and turning paler than before; "he was found in Parson's Meadow—dead—with such a slash!" The man touched his throat and was silent.

Arthur began to listen. "Who is it? does any one know the corpse?"

"Noa; he were a stranger, stripped naked all to the drawers—and murdered; but here's the crowner. He'll explain it all."

The coroner came, a man of business mind, who seemed no more impressed with the solemnity of the scene than a butcher in a shop surrounded by dead sheep. A jury was summoned, and proceeded up stairs. A few of the by-standers were admitted. Among others Arthur. He was dreadfully calm; evidently by an effort which concealed his agitation. "I have never looked on death," he said, "and this first experience is very terrible."

The inquest went on. Arthur, though in the room, kept his eyes perfectly closed; but through shut lids he conjured up to himself the ghastly sight, the stark body, the gaping wound. He thought of hurrying down stairs without waiting the result, but there was a fascination in the scene that detained him.

"The corpse was found in this state," said the coroner: "it needs no proof more than the wounds upon it to show that it was by violence the man died. But by whose hands it is impossible to say. Can no one identify the body?"

There was a long pause. Each of the spectators looked on the piteous spectacle, but could give no answer to the question. At last Arthur, by an immense exertion of self-command, opened his eyes and fixed them on the body. He staggered and nearly fell. His cheeks became deadly pale. His eyeballs were fixed. "I—I know him!" he cried, and knelt beside his bed. "I parted from him last night: he was to come by the wagon from Hawsleigh on his way to Exeter, but left word that he was going to walk on before. He was my brother—my friend."

"And his name?" said the coroner. "This is very satisfactory."

Arthur looked upon the cold brow of the murdered man, and said, with a sob of despair,

"Winnington Harvey!"

The coroner took the depositions, went through the legal forms, and gave the proper verdict—"Murdered; but by some person or persons unknown."

It was a lawless time, and deeds of violence were very frequent. Some years after the perpetrators of the deed were detected in some other crime, and confessed their guilt. They had robbed and murdered the unoffending traveler, and were scared away by the approach of the post-wagon from Hawsleigh. Arthur caused a small head-stone to be raised over his friend's grave, with the inscription of his name and fate. Callous as he sometimes appeared, he could not personally convey the sad news to Winnington's relations, but forwarded them the full certificate of the sad occurrence. It is needless to tell what tears were shed by the unhappy mother and sister, or how often their fancy traveled to the small monument and fresh turf grave in the churchyard of Oakfield.

STEAM ENGINE.—The Philadelphia steam fire-engine "Young America" is now ready for service, and will hereafter be on hand at fires that require its aid. This new auxiliary to the Fire Department, (says the Sunday Dispatch, which has been a consistent opponent of this innovater,) was recently tried, at once playing two streams over the top of the Tobacco Warehouses. She excited a good deal of attention, and was generally considered successful. "Young America" abundantly supplied herself with water from a single plug. This is managed by fitting a sucking apparatus to the nozzle of the plug, by which four or five times as much water is drawn as would run from the supply-pipe, by the force of its own "head."

ASSASSINATED.—William Barclay, a member of Franklin Hose Company, of Philadelphia, while engaged in his duties at the recent fire in that city, was inhumanly assassinated. The Company has offered a reward of $100, and Mayor Conrad also offered a reward of $250, for the discovery, arrest and conviction of the perpetrators.

MANCHESTER.—The Fire Department of Manchester is now organized as follows: Chief Engineer, John H. Maynard; Assistants, Caleb Daxbury, C. H. Brown, R. D. Mooers, J. O. A. Sargent, J. L. Holley, Phineas Adams, E. W. Harrington, Harry Leeds, Orrison Hardy; Clerk, John L. Holley.

On Monday next, that wise affair, yclept Hawes' Consolidation Bill goes into effect. By its provisions, the Fire Department is put upon short allowance,—the magnanimous, enlightened and liberal-minded author, giving the enormous sum of eight thousand dollars for the entire expenses of the Organization, per year. With this munificent donation, the hose for the Department must be bought, kept in order and preserved,—cisterns built, filled and repaired,—salaries of stewards paid every month, and apparatus kept in repair,—lights furnished to the Companies,—and in fact everything appertaining to the well-being of the Deparment, must be procured for that eight thousand dollars. Now, we tell Mr. Hawes, the firemen despise his narrow-minded conduct in thus attempting to hamper them in the discharge of their duty. They despise the niggardly amount alluded to, and care but very little, whether they get it or not. They despise his meanness, particularly for the reason, they have expended, since the first day of July last, upwards of seventeen thousand and five hundred dollars for the support of their respective Companies; a condition of things disgraceful to the city, and infamous on the part of those who brought such a state of affairs about. The amount the firemen have paid out of their individual pockets, for the last year, is double the sum which the generous Mr. Hawes saw fit to allow them, for future terms; but as we said before, the firemen despise the course he has pursued against them, and only notice it to treat it with contempt, for as long so the mass of the people countenance them, they are not all fearful they will ever want for support.

The particular attention of the firemen is called to the proceedings of the Board of Delegates, in another column, relating to the matter of Charles Gray. In the position taken by the delegates, on Wednesday evening, the supremacy of the laws governing the Fire Department was sustained above every other consideration. In the manner in which No. 7 presented their complaint, and in the subsequent proceedings in the Recorder's Court, no one can for a moment suppose, that they intentionally were disrespectful to the governing power of the Department, but, proceeding as they did, committed an error, which, for precedent in future cases, demanded immediate correction.

The manly course adopted by the delegate from No. 7, in so promptly withdrawing any language which might be construed as offensive to the Board, proved, as a matter of course, that he was conscious a mistake had been made, and that his case would not be endangered by its correction. The criminal proceedings in this matter, it is clearly apparent, were never intended to be pushed to extremes, and had it not been for the haste of parties not at all interested, the subject would now have been disposed of. It would be better if the case was withdrawn from the Recorder's Court, and left entirely to the Board of Delegates for adjudication.

Diploma Certificates.

In answer to a communication, which we have received, asking us whether in our remarks, last week, touching the charge of five dollars for the above certificates, we intended to affect the present members of the Fire Department, we most distinctly say that was not our intention, and a reference to the article in question cannot but satisfy our correspondent on that point. It is but an act of justice to those already in the Department and have joined in good faith, that they should receive a diploma certificate in a proper state; the number of which will not exceed two hundred. Not the slightest injury can redound to the Department, if such a course be pursued; on the contrary, a better feeling will accrue from an act which in its results must prove gratifying to all parties. Five dollars is little enough, in our opinion, for any man to pay to become a member of the San Francisco Fire Department, and enjoy the immunities which flow from such a connection; at the same time receiving a certificate of membership, similar to the diploma's. If to be a member of the Department is not worth five dollars, it is not worth anything.

BENEFIT TO PURCHASE HOSE.—In another column may be found the tender of a benefit, from Messrs. Rowe and Smith, of the Pioneer Circus, to the Fire Department, for the purchase of hose, in lieu of the rotten assortment now on the reels. Coming at this particular time when the Depart. is so greatly in need of assistance, the kindness of Messrs. Rowe and Smith is appreciated four fold by the Firemen. The benefit proposed comes off on Saturday evening next, and members of the organization must co-operate with the proprietors in rendering the benefit a renumerative one. The hose bought with the proceeds arising from the benefit will not belong to the City or County, but to the Department, as a gift from the citizens.

Board of Delegates.

A special meeting of the Board of Delegates, was held on Wednesday evening last, June 25th, at eight o'clock, at their chambers in the City Hall, to investigate the charges made by Volunteer Engine Company No. 7, against Charles Gray, Foreman of Columbian Engine Company, No. 11.

President Franklin L. Jones in the chair.

The Roll being called, the following members answered to their names:

Messrs. McCarthy, Hunt, Wasson, Rand, Heydenfeldt, Boruck, Hixon, Vreeland, Titcomb, Hossefross, Sinton, Moore, McKendry, Walsh, Thomas, Bluxome, Fitzpatrick, Herbert, Buckley, Hoff, Whalen, Finnegan, Plum, States, Cobb, Maillott, Mahony.

Absent—Babcock, Simons, Reed, Berry, Hoffman.

William H. Brennan was admitted as a Delegate from Columbian Engine Company, No. 11, vice Daniel N. Tucker, resigned.

The object of the meeting was stated by the President, and the following communication from Volunteer Engine Company, No. 7, was read by the Secretary:

VOLUNTEER ENGINE HOUSE, June 17, '56.

To the Board of Delegates of the San Francisco Fire Department.

Gentlemen: We the undersigned, in behalf of the Fire Department of San Francisco, do represent, that while running to an alarm of fire, on Sunday morning last, near the corner of Kearny and Washington streets, Charles Gray, Foreman of Columbian Engine. No. 11, most brutally assaulted and maimed Robert McKay, one of our members, by striking him with his trumpet, inflicting a frightful wound on his nose, almost severing it from his face, knocking him perfectly senseless. We, in behalf of the Company, ask for a careful investigation of the matter before your Honorable body, and can produce sufficient evidence to sustain our charge—and hope that the perpetrator of such a villianous and aggravated assault will meet with his just deserts.

[Signed] JOHN M. HASKELL,
WM. O. FARNSWORTH,
JOHN S. EELS,
JOHN D. VAN BUREN,
GEORGE REED,
Committee.

Upon the reading of the charges, Mr. Hossefross, of No. 6, stated that a criminal prosecution was now going on against Mr. Gray, in the Recorder's Court, and that a decision would not be rendered there, until Saturday next. He did not think it just to Mr. Gray to be compelled to be on trial in both places at the same time; and for that reason, he would like to have an expression of the Board on the subject.

Mr. Hoff, of No. 12, the counsel of Mr. Gray, objected to the wording of the communication from No. 7, as being entirely incompatible with the dignity of the Board, to receive—that it was disrespectful, and the Company had seen fit to pre-judge the case of Mr. Gray, without a particle of evidence having been adduced before the Board.

Mr. Sinton, of No. 6, concurred with Mr. Hoff in his objections. The phraseology of the letter of No. 7, was not characterised with that respect which was the right of the Board. All the Company were called upon to do, was to make the charges, but it was for the Board to decide whether they were of a brutal or aggravated kind, solely on the evidence brought before them, and not from the unjust comments of the Company. He hoped the communication would be referred back to the Company, and returned in a proper and legitimate shape to the Board.

Mr. Moore, the delegate from No. 7, and counsel for the Fire Department, said that he was at a loss to discover what the gentleman from No. 6 desired. If it was delay, let him speak out boldly, and say so. Charges had been made against Mr. Gray which, although of a very serious nature, were such as could be proved, and proved to the satisfaction of the Board, by the evidence to be submitted. He saw no reason for delay—the facts were perfectly clear.

Mr. Sinton moved that the communication be referred back to Volunteer No. 7, for amendment.

Mr. Heydenfeldt, of No. 3, rose to a point of order. That it would be improper to take such action as proposed by Mr. Sinton. The communication from No. 7 was now the property of the Board,—it had been received at a previous meeting, read, and ordered on file, and acted upon. Under its charges, testimony had been taken by order of the Board, of a very important witness for the defence, Mr. Tucker, that he had left the State, and, in the event of new charges being presented, his testimony would be lost; and if such a course was pursued he doubted the right of the Board to proceed further in the matter.

Mr. Moore offered to withdraw that portion of the communication deemed offensive to the Board, No. 7 had no desire to do anything wrong in the premises, but everything that was right, and he hoped the matter would be immediately taken up and disposed of.

Mr. Sinton withdrew his motion to refer back.

Mr. Boruck, of No. 4, objected to the trial proceeding at this time; he desired delay, for the reason that Mr. Gray was on trial before the Recorder, for the same offence, and if this Board made a decision in the case, before final action was had in the Recorder's Court, it would be the means of prejudging the matter, and would be entirely unjust to Mr. Gray. He considered it no more than a mark of respect to the Board of Delegates, that until it, the highest authority of the Department had decided, all other proceedings should be stayed. He was as well prepared to mete out punishment to Mr. Gray for the offence he had committed, as any member of the Board; he knew nothing of the merits or demerits of the case, but should be actuated solely by the evidence introduced, but until the Recorder had made a disposition of the matter, he was opposed to the Board taking any action, and offered the following Resolution:

Resolved, That the further investigation of the matter pending, be deferred until after a decision is rendered in the Recorder's Court.

Mr. Moore thought it was a waste of breath on the part of the Secretary, and his eloquence was not at all necessary, to take the position he had evinced in his remarks. The Company which he represented had no desire to force the matter in a Criminal Court. A warrant, it was true, had been gotten out against Mr. Gray, but it was not the intention of the Company to put in force, unless certain contingencies arose; and had it not been for the officiousness of certain parties, who had no shadow of right to interfere, the warrant would not have been served.

Mr. Cobb thought that the affair looked to him, as if there was considerable persecution in the manner which No. 7 sought to dispose of Mr. Gray; he thought that the Board should first dispose of the case, or wait until the Courts had got through with it, and it was for that reason he seconded the resolution of Mr. Boruck, which he hoped would pass.

Mr. Hoff here stated that material witnesses on the part of Mr. Gray were absent, and that he could not safely proceed to trial without them.

Mr. Moore stated that if the gentleman had said so at the outset, he would have cheerfully withdrawn all opposition to a postponement.

The Resolution offered by Mr. Boruck was then passed, and the Board adjourned, with the understanding, that the President would call it together to try the case after a decision had been rendered in the Recorder's Court.

THE HALL BELL.—On Saturday last during the excitement attending the arrest of Judge Terry, a guard was placed by the Executive branch of the Vigilance Committee over the Hall Bell, to protect the legally appointed authority of the Fire Department in the fulfillment of his duties, as it was said that the bell had been tampered with to prevent an alarm in case of fire. Of the truth or falsity of this charge we do not now feel prepared to speak, but at another time shall make it the subject of comment. The placing the guard over the bell, was distasteful to many of the firemen, as they imagined it implied a doubt of their fidelity in event of danger, and they also thought that it was virtually taking out of the hands of the Department the most valuable adjunct of the organization. The following note, from Captain Hiram Webb, settles the point, that no interference was contemplated with the legally constituted authority of the Department.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27, 1856.

EDITOR FIREMAN'S JOURNAL.

Dear Sir:—I have heard it stated that on Saturday last, the bell on the City Hall was "muzzled". This statement I wish you to pronounce untrue.

Sometime during the afternoon of that day, I detailed either 6 or 8 men from Company No. 1 under my charge, and placed them on the roof, or in the belfry of the City Hall. This was done, not to interfere with the person regularly in charge of the bell; in him I had perfect confidence. My object, as was that from whom I received orders, was to see that no attempt was made by other parties to interfere with the duty of the one in charge, and to see that in case of an alarm of fire, that the bell should be rung.

No order was given that could, in any way, conflict with the duty of the person regularly in charge.

Yours,
HIRAM WEBB.
Capt. Executive Guard, Co. No. 1.

There are grave considerations connected with this whole affair, which neither time will allow, or inclination prompt us to discuss at the present; but all those interested may rest assured that it is an occurrence whose import will not be allowed to slumber, or its results prove uninteresting.

COMPLIMENTARY.—The Globe, of Monday morning, says:

That during the excitemen of Saturday the Fire Department was not lost sight of. The Chief Engineer, J. E. Nuttman, Col. F. Mahony, a member of the Board of Delegates, and others of the Department, made a thorough supervision and examination of the Department during the evening. The various engine houses were visited and guards posted to protect and man the apparatus, and the alarm bells found in ringing order. In consequence of the rottenness of the hose now in use, Col. Mahony, of the firm of Case, Heiser & co., gave the Chief full liberty to use the new hose in their establishment in case of a serious fire. The placing of a Vigilance Committee guard on the Hall Bell was not at all pleasing to many of the members of the Department, as they thought it carried a doubt of their performing their duty. At the request of the Chief the guard was removed by Col. Doane. We understand from good authority that the reason the guard was posted was that the clapper of the bell was found tied so that it could not be rung. If so what was the regularly appointed bell-ringer about that he did not report it to Mr. Nuttman. The Chief should inquire into it. Every precaution was taken by the officers of the Department, so that at the first alarm the whole force of the Department should be at their posts, The completeness of their arrangements was manifest at the alarm of fire yesterday morning, in the second district, which proceeded from the burning of a brick kiln on the Presidio road, the Department turned out en masse, and the answers to roll call, we understand, were fuller than at any time for months previous. It speaks volumes for the organization, and only goes to show our citizens what an arm of protection the Fire Department is to the city. The Firemen of San Francisco are a noble set of men, and well worthy the confidence and esteem of the people. During the present excitement, in case of fire at the extreme limits of the city, but a portion of the apparatus will be allowed to proceed to it, so that a sufficiency of men and apparatus may be available should another break out at the same time.

PARADE.—It is said that several of the fire companies intend parading on the 4th, for the reason there was no turn out on the 22d February. Although we are well satisfied that the Department, or any portion of it would make a fine appearance, and gain considerable approbation by a public display, yet, taking all things into consideration, it would be well to postpone any general parade. There will be considerable excitement in the city on that day, and it will require great care and vigilance on the part of the firemen to protect the city, and they should not place themselves in a position which would not permit them to respond at a moment's notice.

OLD ENGINES.—Authority has been given the Chief Engineer, by the Board of Aldermen, to dispose of the old engines, owned by the city, and place the proceeds to the credit of the Fire Department. The measure has not finally passed, but will probably on Monday night. It would be well to amend the ordinance, so as to appropriate the money to repair the present dilapidated hose of the department. If an appropriation of that character cannot be legally passed, let the ordinance be worded, so as to authorise the Chief Engineer to sell the property, and then the funds may be disposed of as we suggest and God knows they could not be given to a better purpose.

FIRE CAPS.—C. G. Stahl, No. 165, Washington street, is manufacturing a number of fire caps for the Willamette Engine Company of Portland, Oregon. They are similar to those worn by the Tigers, and are handsomely gotten up. The Department in Portland is being organized thoroughly, and, although just now small in numbers, their efficiency is enviable. The Willamette's have a splendid engine, after the style of No. 5, of this city, now on the way for them from the establishment of James Smith, New York.

PENNSYLVANIA 12.—During the illness of Mr. Hopkins, who, since his injuries has occupied the meeting room, in the new house of No. 12, the apparatus has rolled from the house formerly occupied by the company. The Board of Directors have given orders for the change.

MANHATTAN 2.—The house of this Company on Jackson street was brilliantly illuminated, on Monday night, and made a splendid appearance. The interior and exterior of this house is very neat, and conceived in excellent taste. The large apparatus of the Company is housed in the new house.

PACIFIC 8.—This engine is again in service, the street in front of the house having been repaired, so as to admit of its rolling.

ENGINE PRACTICE.—Manhattan 2, and Pacific 8, have both been out for practice this week; the former on Monday, and the latter on Tuesday The Manhattan's were out in uniform. Both engines worked well and satisfactorily.

Correspondence.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23, 1856.

To JAMES E. NUTTMAN, Chief Engineer, and MARCUS D. BORUCK, Secretary. S. F. F. D.

GENTLEMEN—Having just reached the city for the purpose of making arrangements for the re-opening of the Pioneer Circus, and understanding that you are engaged in behalf of the Fire Department in soliciting subscriptions for the purchase of hose for its use, that now in the possession of the Department being almost worthless, I take pleasure in tendering the receipts of the Circus on Saturday evening, July 5th, to be appropriated to the above object.

Truly, your friend,
JOHN SMITH,
For Rowe & Smith. Pioneer Circus-Proprietors Pioneer Circus.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23, 1856

MR. JOHN SMITH, Pioneer Circus:

DEAR SIR:—We are in receipt of your esteemed favor of this morning, tendering the receipts of the Pioneer Circus on Saturday evening, July 5th, to the Fire Department, for the purchase of hose for its use. We accept the same, and in doing so express, in behalf of the Firemen, the most grateful acknowledgments for your noble and disinterested kindness; and we shall endeavor to enlist the sympathies of the cittzens to co-operate with us, in consummating your object.

Very respectfully your ob't seev'ts,
JAMES E. NUTTMAN,
Chief Engineer S. F. F. D.
MARCUS D. BORUCK.
Secretary S. F. F. D,

Appropriati ns.

The following appropriations were made to the Fire Department, on Thursday evening, in the Board of Aldermen:

Ordinance to pay Monumental Co., $226, for incidental expenses.

Also, ordinance to pay Lafayette Hook and Ladder Co., $320, for same purpose.

Ordinance to pay the salaries of fire engine Stewards, for three months, ending July 1st, adopted.

Wm. Wood, $200, for rent of house for fire Engine, No. 8, from July to October, 1855.

Ross & Co., $400, for fire apparatus repairs of No. 4.

Wm. E. Worth, $500, for repairs on Engine No. 2.

Jesse Seligman, $50, rent of Engine House for No. 3.

John Hanna, $950, for supplies to the Fire Department.

C. Walsh, $176, for supplies to fire Co., No. 8.

H. O. Gough, $298, for expense of Vigilant Engine Co., No. 9.

The srlaries of the stewards for the three months ending July 1st, were also ordered paid, amounting to two thousand and forty dollars.

Fires and Alarms for the week.

June 22d—9½ A. M.—Hall Bell alarm—second district. Smoke from brick kiln on Presidio Road. No damage. The Department out en masse, the answers at roll call, fuller than at any time, since the 4th of July fire.

RESIGNED.—Wm. T. Hoffman, Delegate from Sansome H. & L., 3, has resigned, and Robert A. Law elected to fill his place. We regret that Mr. H. has left the Board. A better man, or more honorable delegate there was not in the Department, and at this particular juncture, his absence will be felt. In Mr. Law, however, the Company will be well represented.

TOO BAD.—Something must be done, and that very quick too, for No. 12, as the True Californian says, that during the illness of Mr. Hopkins, the bell on 12's house will not be rung, and as the members have no other method of getting an alarm of fire, some arrangement ought to be made without delay, to remedy the evil.

NEW DELEGATE.—Wm H. Brennan, Secretary of No. 11 has been elected delegate from that Company, vice Daniel N. Tucker, resigned.

EXECUTED.—William S. Kelly and Samuel Garrett were executed yesterday at one o'clock at Sacramento, upon conviction of murder. Kelly was convicted of being an accomplice with Mickey Free, in several murders committed in the interior. Garrett killed Amiel Brickell, after having seduced the daughter of the murdered man. Six thousand persons witnessed the execution, many women being of the number. The military refused to turn out and guard the prisoners; the firemen were therefore called upon by the Sheriff and did guard duty to the satisfaction of that official.

DEAD.—The foundling which was left at the door of J. S. Eagan, some weeks ago, and for whom James P. Casey got a bill through the Board of Supervisors, for $500 for its support, died on the 25th inst., and was buried by Coroner Kent.

THE WIDE WEST.—The Fourth of July illustrated Wide West is really a superior sheet, one which reflects great credit upon those under whose auspices it has been brought out. The allegorical representation of the regeneration of California is well designed and finely executed. The Pictorial is among the very best ever published in this State, and is indicative of the enterprise and taste of the newspaper men of the State and San Francisco particularly.

DRUGS, &c.—Charles Morrill, Battery street, opposite the Custom House, has on hand and is receiving by every steamer, Drugs, Medicines, Toilet Goods, Garden Seeds, Brushes, Paints, Oil, &c., of the best description, which he will dispose of at wholesale prices. Those desiring to purchase, will find it to their advantage to trade with Mr. Morrill.

NOISY CARRIER.—We have received from C. P. Kimball, 87 Battery street, an illustration of the march of Judge Terry and Reuben Maloney to the Committee rooms.

J. W. TUCKER.—This gentleman has in his establishment the most splendid stock of Jewelry that can be found in California. A glance at the beautiful assortment of Diamonds, Watches, &c., will convince any one of the fact.

DORCHESTER.—Messrs. Sylvester H. Hebard, Alfred Clapp, Robert White, Isaac W. Hart, Andrew Collins and Samuel F. White, have been elected Engineers of the Fire Department, Dorchester, Mass., for the ensuing year.

BOSTON.—Captain F. A Coburn has been unanimously elected Secretary of the Board of Engineers of the Boston Fire Department, in place of Henry Hart, deceased. Capt. C. has been a fireman twenty-two years.

PHILADELPHIA.—Mr. Vaux, the newly elected Mayor of Philadelphia, is a member of the Fire Department, and runs with the machine.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—Mrs. Julia Dean Hayne is performing at the Metropolitan Theatre. "Romeo and Juliet" is announced for this evening.

UNION.—A fine bill is presented at the Union Theatre to-night. "Rafael, or the Reprobate of Paris," a dance by la petite Mary, the Mythological Ballet, of "Diana and Satyr," the whole concluding with a "Day after the Wedding." Messrs. Booth, Anderson, McCabe, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Booth appear, together with Mons. Schmidt, Mlle. Therese and Madame Caroline, presenting a combination of talent seldom equaled at any of our public places of amusement.

RETURNED.—The Backus Troupe of Minstrels returned, yesterday, from Australia, in which place they have been sojourning for several months past. We understand they will make arrangements to appear in a very few days.

SAN FRANCISCO MINSTRELS.—The Minstrels left town, on Monday last, for a trip to Sacramento, Mary'sville and Stockton. They will be absent about two months.

PIONEER CIRCUS.—Rowe & Smith's Pioneer Circus will re-open in this city, on Tuesday next, July 1st. Since they were here last, the proprietors have made several additions to their troupe of an attractive character. "Young Raphael," the celebrated Retro-Equestrian, and Rochette, the famous French clown, have been engaged, and in conjunction with the extraordinary talent at present comprising the company, will appear on every evening during their stay here. On Friday, the 4th of July, two performances will be given, one at 1, P. M., and the other at 8, P. M. The tour of the Pioneer Circus Company throughout the State has been very successful.

SAN FRANCISCO

SATURDAY MORNING, June 28, 1856.

MAJOR GENERAL SECOND DIVISION.—General H. W. Carpentier, in a letter to the Alta, asserts his right to the position of Major General of the Second Division, he having been regularly and legally qualified for the same. Gen. Carpentier says that whilst Gen. Sherman, was acting under the orders of the Governor, he was reluctant to complicate matters, at a time of such excitement, by insisting upon his perogative to act, but that now he has withdrawn from a position doubtles occupied by him through a misapprehension, he (Gen. C.) is now ready and prepared, as he has ever been, to perform all duties devolving upon him as a loyal citizen and as an officer. The commission of Gen. Howard, under these circumstances, is illegal, and of no effect.

INSPECTION.—The Independent City Guard, to the number of fifty-five men, paraded last evening for inspection, it being the first turn out since the return of Capt. Clark. For a company display it was one of the finest we have ever seen. The men were in uniform and handsomely equipped. Their evolutions evinced a precision which they may well be proud of. So rapidly are the ranks filling up, that in all probability Company 2 will shortly be formed. After marching through the principal streets they returned to their armory. We were very much pleased with the appearance of the company and the true soldiery bearing of both officers and men. Capt. C. has kept his word in regard to his company, he said it should be A No. 1 of military companies in the city, and the exhibition last evening is proof conclusive of the fact.

FOURTH OF JULY.—The California Guard will parade on the 4th of July, and fire the usual salutes. Capt. Johns will be in command, and it is said the ranks of the Guard will be fuller than at any previous time.

We are informed that the Independent City Guard, (Captain Clark,) and Independent Wallace Guard, (Capt. McDonald) will also turn out on the 4th ult.

ARMORY.—The Independent City Guard have taken the room in the second story of the building, formerly occupied by Tobin & Duncan, on Sacramento street, for an Armory, and fitted it up neatly and comfortably. The Guards will parade about fifty-five muskets, on the 4th.

INDEPENDENT NATIONAL GUARD.—The benefit in aid of the Independent National Guard, at the Americau Theatre, on the 18th inst., yielded ten hundred and fifty dollars.

This Room, having been fitted up in a style of taste and elegance unequalled in California.

IS NOW OPEN TO THE PUBLIC.

The TABLES—six in number—from the manufactory of Messrs Strahle & Brother, in accuracy of movement and beautiful workmanship, challenge comparison from Eastern manufactories. Among the valuable improvements introduced in their construction, is one which prevents the chalk from accumulating in the pockets, thereby keeping Tables always clean and in order. An ingenious addition is also made to the legs of the Tables by means of which the beds are kept in a perfectly level position.

The favor of the lovers of the quiet and genteel game of Billiards, is solicited.

THE CELEBRATED

GERMAN TONIC AND AROMATIC BITTERS.

☞ AN INFALLIBLE REMEDY FOR JAUNDICE, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, IMPURITIES OF THE BLOOD, &c., &c.,

and an Elegant, Salubrious and Wonderful Restorative in all DISEASES OF THE STOMACH and DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

Virtues of the German Bitters.

In all diseases of the Stomach and Digestive Organs, the German Tonic and Aromatic Bitters surpass any medicine that has ever been devised. By a peculiar process of German chemistry, they possess the power of warming and invigorating the functions of the Stomach, while they diminish the feverish sensibility of the nerves and fibre.

They fortify and strengthen a weak stomach, and quickly dissipate all unpleasant pains and symptoms. They calm spasmodic action; restore the lost appetite; promote digestion; and, in a word, remove, with astonishing power, all the disorders occasioned by weakness and debility, provided the patient be not afflicted with indissoluble organic obstructions.

These Bitters are highly esteemed in the West Indies and southern part of the United States, for nourishing and invigorating the nervous system and acting as a general restorative on debilitated constitutions, arising from bilious complaints contracted in warm climates.

They are pre-eminently efficacious in all inward wastings, loss of appetite, indigestion, depression of spirits, trembling or shaking of the hands or limbs, and all consumptive habits. They purify the blood, ease the most unpleasant sensations in the stomach, and promote general warmth and perspiration. They are delightfully aromatic to the taste and smell; agreeably stimulating and stringent in their action on the fibres of the stomach, giving that proper tension and activity to these delicate organs which good digestion requires For sale by

Will leave on the 5th of July for New York,

We are TAKING MEASURES for suits of clothing, to be made by Messrs.

CRONY & LENT,

No. 753 Broadway.

We have the facility, and do manufacture the finest and most beautiful styles of clothing in the United States.—They are acknowledged by all who have tried them, to be such as we represent.

It is the intention of G. F. W., after an absence from home of nearly five years, to bring out his family, as he intends making California his permanent abode.

His maxim is—if California is good enough to make money in, it is good enough to live in. The advantage now gained by leaving your orders is, that all goods will be manufactured under the immediate supervision of G. F. W., so that every article of clothing intrusted to him to make will be got up in his usual good style.

Orders will be taken, and the articles delivered in San Francisco at the same prices that they are sold out of the store ready made—freight expenses free.

Our friends and the public are assured that no garment will be expected to be taken if not entirely to the satisfaction of parties ordering the same. Call soon and have your measures taken. Persons in the interior will please observe this notice, and send their orders by express to

Improved Extract of Yellow Dock & Sarsaparilla

Is acknowledged to be the best Sarsaparilla made; as is certified by the wonderful cures it has performed. Remember, this is the only True and Original Article. This Medicine, when used according to Directions,

Will Cure Without Fail,

Scrofula, or King's Evil, Cancers, Tumors, Eruptions of the Skin, Erysipelas, Chronic Sore Eyes, Ringworm, or Tetter, Scald Head, Rheumatism, Pains in the Bones and Joints, Old Sores, Ulcers, Swelling of the Glands, Syphilis, Dyspepsia, Salt Rheum, Disease of the Kidneys, Loss of Appetite, Disease Arising from the use of Mercury, Pain in the Side and Shoulders, General Debility, JAUNDICE AND COSTIVENESS.

The Best Female Medicine Known.

The Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla is peculiarly adapted for females of delicate health, resulting from the irregularity of menstrual discharges and other diseases peculiar to their sex. We assure the afflicted that a bottle or two of DR. GUYSOTT'S EXTRACT OF YELLOW DOCK AND SARSAPARILLA will at once regulate those difficulties and renew the natural energies.

Syphilis, Scrofula and Diseased Blood.

Dr. Guysott's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla is a true specific. The proprietors have in their possession over one hundred certificates of the most extraordinary cures effected by it. We can safely say, TRY IT. It revives the drooping constitution, eradicates all bad humors from the blood, and by its tonic properties restores the invalid to health and vigor. As a spring and summer medicine, it has no equal. Its singularly efficacious action on the blood, its strengthening and vivifying action on the system, stand pre-eminent above all other Sarsaparillas. If you would have the rose brought back to your cheek, a clear, healthy and transparent skin, and life and health infused through the system, take Guysott's Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla. It contains more of the pure Honduras Sarsaparilla than any other preparation extant, which is chemically combined with the Extract of Yellow Dock and the Extract of Wild Cherry, thus making the remedy more efficient than any other Sarsaparilla before the public. At the same time it is perfectly free from all mineral poisons, which cannot be said of any other Sarsaparilla compounds.

Sold by all the Druggists in California and Oregon.

$100 REWARD!

TO ANY ONE WHO CAN PRODUCE AS good an AMBROTYPE PICTURE as we are making, no matter in what part of the world it was made.

R. H. VANCE,

PATENT AMBROTYPES

Corner of Sacramento and Montgomery streets

To those who wish something New and BEAUTIFUL:—We have purchased the Patent Right of CUTTING AMBROTYPES for this state, and are now prepared to take them in a style unequaled in the United States, of any size from the smallest minature to life size

I hereby denounce all Pictures taken on Glass in this city or State, and called Ambrotypes, as spurious and a fraud upon the public, being a miserable imitation of the genuine article. I would say to all who have been deceived and swindled with Bogus Pictures, not to condemn this new and beautiful invention until they have seen the GENUINE AMBROTYPES They are said to be the most durable Picture known, as neither acids, water, or dampness of any kind, can affect them Those having Daguerreotypes which they wish to preserve FOREVER, would do well to have them copied in Ambrotype

Great attention will be paid to GROUPING. Groups from 2 to 30 can be made perfect. Persons can now be taken with Regalias, Military or Fireman dress, without having the insignias or letters reversed

Children taken by this new process in less than one second

We still continue to execute our splendid Premium Daguerreotypes as usual. Having made great and extensive additions to our Gallery, for the purpose of making and exhibiting our Ambrotype Pictures, we would be pleased to have our work examined. Our Gallery is FREE to all je14 3m

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

A CHALLENGE!

WHEREAS, A CERTAIN DAGUERREOTYPIST of this city has advertised that he takes the only genuine AMBROTYPES in this city, and that all others are HOAXS, we announce this a gross misrepresentation, and an attempt to swindle the public Mr GEO. McKOWN, of our firm, was putting up Ambrotypes by this alleged patented process, at Mr Root's establishment in Philadelphia, long before a glass pict ire was taken in California, but, as it was soon found out it invariably destroyed the picture, it was repudiated. We can show any person in a few minutes, by calling at our rooms, the truth of this statement.

$200 CHALLENGE!

To be left to scientific men that our pictures are put up better, look better, and will last longer.

We are not compelled to buy expensive and magnificent frames to show off our minatures—they speak for themselves.

AND, MIND YOU, we only charge a little more than ONE-HALF the price. The dear public have got to pay for these magnificent frames, and high rent and expenses; we do our own work, and our expenses are trifling, comparatively speaking.

WHALING & KENT'S

General Undertaking

—AND—

Furnishing Establishment,

161 Sacramento St., 3 doors below Kearny,

SAN FRANCISCO.

J. HORACE KENT begs leave to announce to the public that in connection with his office as County Coroner, he has purchased from Thos. B. Cunningham, his entire interest in the concern of Jno. W. Whaling & Co., Undertakers, and that the style of the firm hereafter will be

WHALING & KENT,

The establishment having been thoroughly refitted, we are now prepared at all times to attend to funerals with promptness and dispatch, having received a large invoice of Undertakers' goods by late arrivals from New York.—Having also on hand a large stock of

LEAD AND METALLIC COFFINS,

We are at all times prepared to disinter bodies and prepare them so that they can be forwarded with safety to any part of the world, without danger of further decomposition.

FISK'S

Patent Metalic Burial Cases,

AND CORSE PRESERVERS.

The subscribers having received the right of sale of the above Burial Cases, and are prepared to furnish them to Undertakers and others at a small advance upon cost price in the Atlantic States.

The advantages claimed in the use of "Fisk's Metalic Coffins" for preserving the dead, over all others in use are, First, that they necessarily cost very little over the price charged for coffins made of the ordinary woods, and that the manner of using them is so simple that any person can do so by following the directions which accompany each case; and lastly, because they answer the purposes they were originally intended or designed for, viz: the preservation of the human body from decomposition after death, so that it can be forwarded to any part of the world with safety, allowing sufficient time to gratify surviving friends who may be absent, and thereby enabling them to take a last fond look of the dead without offending the most delicate or sensitive. We have witnessed the preservative qualities of these coffins a number of times, in cases where it became onecessary to convey the corpse to a distance, and never in a single instance have known them to fail in all that is claimed for them.

Being perfectly air tight, the body once placed in them retained its natural appearance, without disturbing or disfiguring it in the least, and will remain so for a number of years, if proper care is taken so as to prevent the case from getting broken. And we further state that it is only necessary to give them a trial in order to satisfy the most sceptical.

MINOR COMMISSIONS

—OR—

GENERAL PURCHASING AGENCY,

For the execution of orders for single articles of every description; i. e., Minor Personal Commissions, as distinguished from Dealers' Orders.

Having for the past three years successfully conducted a similar business in this city, the subscriber now offers his services to the non-residents generally in all sections of the State.

An agency of this character has become a requirement of the time, and is in keeping with the Express facilities which now extend to all parts of the State. For such a business, the subscriber claims to be well fitted by experience, taste, tact, education and business acquaintance; while a long connection with Expresses, affords the means of prompt transmission in every direction.

Orders promptly and carefully executed for all kinds of Merchandize, Books, Prints, Music, Scientific and Agricultural Instruments, Tools, Machinery, Weapons, Sporting Implements, Jewelry, Silverware, Drugs, &c.; Clothing, Fancy Articles, and Family Supplies; objects of Taste and Art, Ladies' Wear, etc.

The Best Professional Aid is secured, where required, as in purchasing Pianos and other Musical Instruments, Paintings, etc.

For orders of small amount, goods can be paid for on delivery by Express; larger amounts will require a remittance on account, or a city reference.

As the aggregate amount of orders secures the usual trade allowance with wholesale dealers, parties can have their commissions filled on as good or better terms than could be obtained by each singly.

All orders should be as explicit as possible, in essential particulars.

Orders may be given in French, Spanish or German.

—COMMISSION CHARGES:—

Under $50, 10 per cent. From $50 to 100, 5 per cent. Over $100, 2 1-2 per cent.

MILITARY TACTICS:

Expressly for the Militia of California:

BY WM. C. KIBBE,

ADJUTANT GENERAL OF CALIFORNIA.

SUBSCRIBED TO AND RECOMMENDED as follows:

GEN. WM. C KIBBE, Adjutant General of California—SIR: Having carefully and critically examined your new Book on MILITARY TACTICS, we are pleased to recommend the work as the best adapted to the purposes intended, of any Tactics extant.

The instruction is simple, concise, and well arranged; comprising everything of real utility required for Infantry, Light Infantry, Rifle, Cavalry and Artillery Companies.—Comprising at the same time all the improvements of the present day.

It is indeed a Book which should be in the hands of every Volunteer Soldier. We, therefore, cordially recommend it to the Volunteer Companies, as in every way adapted to their wants, and likely to secure that uniformity in their drill so much to be desired.
